WILSON'S CHARGES

Lord-Young Engineering Company to which the contract was awarded, would not consider the charge seriously.

"It sounds a good deal like Patterson's talk," Mr. Young said. "So far as I am concerned, I never talked with anybody outside before we put in our bid."

"We did not have our tender ready until very late. I was waiting for Ed Lord to return before doing anything about it, but when I found he would not be back in time I went to work on the figures. I took a look over the location, then worked all that night until two o'clock in the morning, worked all the next day and the following night without sleep, before getting our bid completed."

Mr. Young drew from a filing cabinet his original figuring sheets and went over every item with the reporter, to show how closely he had computed the cost. Mr. Lord returned before the bid was submitted and, at his instance, a few items were cut down and the bid made up by adding 10 per cent profit to the calculation.

"As a matter of fact, if the element of time was taken into account," Mr. Young said, "we fairly beat Wilson by $1390. There is a clause here providing for $20 a day liquidated damages against the contractor for time

ISONOMY'S SON
COMES TO KAUAI

Garden Island: Among the arrivals on the last trip of the W. G. Hall, though not listed among the passengers were two newcomers who are expected to materially benefit Kauai and one of whom at least has come to locate permanently, and the other will be here at least three months.

We refer to the splendid four-year-old Belgian stallion, selected by Hon. W. H. Rice Sr., for the Lihue ranch and Lihue plantation combined, and the celebrated thoroughbred stallion, Workman, property of Lieutenant Parker of the Fifth Cavalry, which has been brought to Kauai by Mr. Arthur H. Rice.

The former is a 1900 colt, blood bay with black points, and the finest specimen of a draught horse ever brought to Kauai.

He possesses in a marked degree the special characteristics of his race, great shoulders, powerful quarters, and a perfect disposition.

He is located at Rice's stable in Lihue. Workman is a thoroughbred of national reputation, a grandson of Isonomy, and has in his time won $37,000, $12,640 of it as a two-year-old.

Jet black, fine legs, perfect conformation, he is a picture, and a horse that all lovers of God's noblest animal, will be well rewarded by coming to take a look at.

Nin Lai was fined $4 and costs for having sold an alarm clock and a pair of cuff buttons on the Sabbath day.

lost beyond the period of completion stipulated. As our bid was for ninety days less than Wilson's and the county valued the time at $20 a day, it seems only right that the difference should be considered in our favor. I think the county engineer's figures very nearly right."

Lord-Young's figure for macadamizing, oiling and rolling works out at about $5800 a mile.

L. L. McCandless, said by Wilson to have been approached to induce Wilson to keep out, declined to talk.

STARRETT BACK FROM KAUAI

Market Superintendent Starrett returned from Kauai yesterday, and he reports himself as being very well pleased with the prospects of vegetable raising on the Garden Island.

"I talked vegetables with all the homesteaders," said Starrett this morning, "and I got a number of them to promise to try and raise potatoes and onions. Fifteen farmers are starting on onions, and they will cultivate about one acre each."

"At Kapaa I found the steam plows at work, getting the land ready for cane planting. I, while recommending the homesteaders to grow cane, also advised them to go in for vegetables and fruit."

"At Homestead, near Elelee, Portuguese planters took over $100 worth of potatoes from one acre of land last year."

"I visited Waimea Valley also and got a number of Japanese to promise to raise onions in future. The White Bermuda onion is the best variety, in my opinion, to plant in the localities I have mentioned. I have distributed onion and other kinds of seeds all over Kauai."

Mr. Starrett will visit Maui and Hawaii next week.

FEDERAL COURT

Taking of testimony in the Celtic Chief salvage case in the United States district court was resumed this morning. Captain Macaulay was on the witness stand most of the morning testifying as to facts connected with the stranding of the big vessel and the work of getting her afloat. It is probable that most of tomorrow will be devoted to the same case.

The federal grand jury is still in session. It is understood that a partial report may be returned this afternoon concerning the findings thus far. The examination of witnesses in the McMahon murder case was finished on Saturday.

MUTINY

The Makura was in this way held up for half an hour. Finally the pilot boat appeared with the loitering firemen. They were taken aboard and the Makura proceeded on her way, but not before the two men employed at the last minute were sent back by the pilot boat—for to them the captain, rightfully or wrongfully, attributed the "strike" which delayed the royal mail for half an hour.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY
CORNER STONE

Next Saturday afternoon the laying of the cornerstone of the new Carnegie library will take place. The ceremony, which will be conducted by the Masons, will be unique inasmuch that it will be the first time for many years that they have done anything of the kind in Hawaii.

The actual work will be done by the officers and members of Hawaiian Lodge, with the members of the Oceanic and Honolulu lodges assisting. The Knights Templars will appear in uniform and act as an escort to the officers of the lodges and distinguished guests.

The Hon. H. E. Cooper, past eminent commander, will be in command of the Knights, and forty of them will march in line.

The ceremonies will begin at two o'clock, and it is expected that the gathering will be addressed by Dr. David Starr Jordan and R. O. Matheson.

The corner stone is of ironstone, two by three feet by twenty inches, and it is inscribed "Library of Hawaii, 1911."

JUDICIARY BUILDING

Honolulu Iron Works, $12,741.75 (180 days.)

Honolulu Fence & Iron Company, $12,950 (125 days.)

McEldowney, for Llewellyn Iron Works, Los Angeles, $12,850.

Von Hamm-Young Company, $12,372.26 (290 days.)

The tenders were opened today in Marston Campbell's office, and there were a number of interested people present. As soon as the tenders—each accompanied by a certified check—were opened there was a gasp of surprise from the government officials. The highness of the bids evidently surprised everybody, and shortly afterward Superintendent Campbell announced that the bids were all rejected—except the ones for the steel work.

As the appropriation is only $100,000 and the combined lowest bids, building and structural steel, amount to $131,397—that for the construction work alone being nearly $20,000 in excess of the appropriation—there was no other action for the superintendent of public works open than to declare all bids for building off. There is, moreover, the architect's fee of, say, $6000, in the account.
